ANDERSON IS MY TOWN

On the 1st of October my connection with this paper will end. When the paper was bought a year ago, I had hoped that it would be continued as a semi-weekly, but the field for the morning daily here was so inviting and so promising that the owners decided to make the venture and I have given the best efforts that I could, despite the fact that night work and my physical condition at the time made it very trying. On account of the fact that I need an absolute rest from newspaper work for some time, I have accepted a position offered to me a number of times in the past, but heretofore declined because I felt so strongly the lure and fascination of newspaper work.

Anderson is a good field for a morning daily and I feel sure that the paper will make a great success. It will be in good hands and will be backed by men of courage, character and convictions. I wish them the greatest of success.

The editorial management of the paper will be combined with the business management under Mr. W. W.
Smook, who has been in the newspaper business for years with success, and will give the people a clean, fearless paper. I have been requested and accept the opportunity with pleasure to contribute to the columns of The Intelligencer.

As my friends have asked me already a number of questions I feel that it is not improper for me to say that I will be connected with the State department of agriculture, and while I regret that I am not circumstanced as to be able to give all of my life working for Anderson, yet the prospect of a wider field and of opportunity to work for the interests of the whole state is not without its pleasure. I appreciate doubly the opportunity and the compliment, for it was with Commissioner Watson that I had my first real newspaper experience, and he has complimented me more than once by inviting me to join his forces in working for the up building of the state.

I must say that if I had the direction of my own health and nervous energy, I would like to devote the remainder of my life to the interests and the upbuilding of the city of Anderson. I am proud of what this splendid city has done in the last few months, and I know that the future is bright, though clouds temporarily obscure, and the general commercial conditions are for the time not quite as promising as heretofore.

For the present, my home will be in Anderson, as I will be engaged in field work and wherever I may be on in whatever I may be engaged I will always love this good town and her splendid citizens, the best friends man ever had, for "ANDERSON IS MY TOWN."

WILLIAM BANKS.

IT WAS A BIG DAY

The Chamber of Commerce has held a number of interesting and successful trades day meetings, but that of yesterday eclipses them all. Which goes to prove that the work of the Chamber of Commerce of Anderson is not only bearing good fruit, but is holding up well.

The Anderson Chamber of Commerce has attracted the attention of all of the people of the state who are interested in community work, and there is not a city in the state which has not given Anderson credit for accomplishing great things.

The work of this institution must not be allowed to lag, no matter how hard the times get, and the more gloomy the prospect, the more necessary for all of the people of Anderson to get together to make the old town go ahead just that much faster. This is plain, cold business.

The lesson taught by the meeting of yesterday is that Anderson is one of the most resourceful counties in the whole country, and it is the hope and intention of the management of the Chamber of Commerce to hold here next year a great county fair. In the meantime the monthly trades day will be continued and the town and country people are urged to cooperate to make the poultry day a great success in November. There were many of the people of the city mingling with their friends from the country yesterday and that was out of the main reasons for inaugurating the trades day. Let everything be done to keep the good feeling among all of the people of this great county, and let everybody have at heart the interests and welfare and progress of his neighbor.

Harahan on the Job

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 30.—W. J. Harahan, president of the Seaboard Air Line railroad, today authorized a statement denying reports printed in a number of Southern newspapers to the effect that he contemplates resigning.

GREAT EXHIBIT
PLEASED COUNTYSTOCK SHOW SURPASSED
ALL EXPECTATIONS

A GRAND SUCCESS

People Flocked To Anderson Yesterday To See Exhibits of Cattle and Stock and To Witness Fine Racing

Far surpassing the fondest hopes of even its most enthusiastic supporters, and culminating in a day of delightful pleasure, entertainment and success, the first annual Animal Exhibition and Livestock Show held in Anderson yesterday was a tribute to the enterprise and a living, concrete demonstration of what the farmers of Anderson county really is and will be. Staged as it was on an elaborate scale and advertised extensively through the county, the 4,000 people who attended the exhibition and races were unprepared for what they saw and hence surprised at the proportions of the enterprise and thoughtfulness of its promoters.

From the hour the entertainment opened at 10:30 until the close at something like 4 P. M., there was no idle moment, for there was always something worth seeing—something worth doing—something worth hearing.

The meeting was opened at 10:30 by the chairman, Hon. S. A. Burns, president of the Anderson county live stock association.

The invocation was delivered by the Rev. J. H. Giboney, rector of Grace Episcopal church, and the first address of the day was delivered by Prof. W. J. Seely, demonstration agent of the Southern railway. Greenville, S. C., who delivered a short, but convincing argument in favor of grain and livestock as against cotton farming. Prof. J. O. Williams, Livestock demonstrator, Clemson college, attached to Anderson and Pickens counties, delivered a very able address on the "Future of Southern Livestock", predicting that the time was close at hand when the South would lead the country in the production of high grade beef and pork.

But he stated that the farmers would have to pay more attention to grains before this could be consummated.
He stated already that progress was being made, especially in the Piedmont section. "Livestock raising along specific lines" was splendidly discussed by Dr. Walter I. Sorrell, Southern Railway Livestock Bureau, Greensboro, N. C., who delivered one of the most entertaining and instructive talks of the day. Prof. Paul Calvin of Rock Hill, also connected with the livestock extension bureau of Clemson college, addressed the audience on "Real Profits in Livestock", giving the audience a splendid portrayal of the "business" of live stock. Prof. Calvin is a favorite in Anderson, his simple, yet convincing style of talking, appealing to the people; yet yesterday he seemed to be in an especially happy vein.

During the speaking, music was dispensed by the Zion band of Pendleton. This band deserves great credit for the manner in which they acquired themselves yesterday. Prof.
Jolly, bandmaster, stated to a reportley, 2nd prize; C. D. Smith, 3rd prize; or for The Intelligencer, that while the day was a great one for his band because of the great amount of music called for by the program, yet he was proud of the manner in which the boys acted and that all were well pleased with the way in which they were entertained, they being the special guests of the Anderson chamber of commerce at dinner.

The Intelligencer, elsewhere today gives a list of the prize winners in the various departments. There was a total of something over 400 animals entered in the various classes, from which may be gathered some idea of the size of the celebration, perhaps the largest of its kind ever held in the entire Piedmont section.

A GREAT EVANGELIST

Rev. Dr. Vines Thanked by Pastor
Hofft For His Excellent Work
(Baptist Courier.)

Perhaps the greatest meeting ever held in this section came to a close at Mt. Pisgah church (Anderson county) last Tuesday.
For eleven days, morning and evening amid wind, rain and sometimes sunshine the meeting continued with increasing interest to the close.
Forty-five were added to the church, almost every member seemed to be revived. We did not have a homecoming, but a good number.

Great crowds gathered to hear the singing and preaching at the churches, were invited to participate with us in the meeting, and not less than twenty-five were represented during the meeting.

Two of our young preachers, students at Furman, viz., Walter Coker and Andrew Pickens, living in the community, and Rev. Will J. Holt, of Greer, did some good preaching in the meeting, but most of the preaching was done by Dr. J. F.
Vines, of Anderson. Mr. Vines was present and added much to the interest of the meeting by holding meetings with the ladies of the church. Prof. F. M. Bolding, the sweet gospel singer, of Pickens, conducted the singing.

The large tent belonging to the Saluda Association was rented and put up near the church to accommodate the thousands who attended the meeting. Surely the community will be better after the great blessing of such a meeting.

Dr. Vines is one of the greatest revivalists that it has ever been my privilege to hear and have heard some of our acknowledged leaders.
This is the second year that Dr. Vines has preached for us at Mt. Pisgah, and the pastor and people desire that he shall come again this summer.

Our brethren are talking about larging our church building so as to accommodate the congregations and Sunday school.

The Lord be praised for his goodness.

Fraternally,

D. W. HIGTT,

Easley, Sept. 24.

COROT'S BIG HEART

An Incident Illustrating the Great Artist's Generosity.

Corot, the great French landscape artist, was a man of the temperament traditionally associated with genius—irritable, impetuous, caustic, penetrating and lovable. M. Albert Duboussy, whose father was the great painter's friend, has published some interesting remembrances of him in the Studio, in which he tells of a day he spent with the artist in his studio, when a knock at the door—the last straw after several really annoying interruptions—caused Corot to fling the door open abruptly with flushed face and fire in his eye.

"What is it now? Come in! Who are you? What do you come and disturb me for?" he demanded angrily.
The caller much disconcerted, stammered his explanation:

"I came, M. Corot—I'm about an accident. A workman engaged on the building has had a fall. His condition is very grave. They have just taken him off to the hospital. We know the poor chap. He's a workman who leaves a wife and four children.
We are getting up a subscription among the lodgers in the building for the family. I thought you would perhaps like to join us."

Corot's expressive countenance showed clearly his quick regret for his contumacious to the messenger, and his deepening sympathy for the injured man. He made prompt amends.

"The poor fellow!" he exclaimed.
"An unfortunate family—a wife and four children! We must do everything possible to help them. Now how can I be of use to you—I who only know how to busy myself with painting trees and streams? They must be assured food and shelter, and they'll need money. Here, you see that little bureau? Do you mind going to the first drawer? Good! Now take out what you think necessary, and I beg you not to use too much discretion. My back is turned, and we'll look. You can't think how glad I am to be allowed to share in your kind efforts on their behalf."

Obedient these directions, the visitor opened the drawer and paused thunderstruck, for it was full of gold and bills, tossed in rather haphazardly, but had received them. With some embarrassment, while Corot worked away busily at his easel, the visitor took himself to as large a sum as his conscience permitted him to take, murmured his thanks and departed. Corot never inquired what he had taken or looked to see, although, indeed, he would not have known if he had.

REPAID THE FAVOR.

Grant Did Not Forget the Man Who

General Grant's most characteristic feature, perhaps, was his reward of the friends who had stood by him in his early days, and Colonel S.
A. Holmes of St. Louis. While Grant was doing the best he could after he had quit the army and was down and out wanted to get the job of county surveyor of St. Louis county, this job was in the keeping of the three county judges, and Grant could get only one of them to vote for him—so he didn't get the place.

"After the war, when Grant was serving his first term as president, a delegation of Missourians visited the White House to urge the appointment of a St. Louis man for collector of internal revenue, the most important position in the state. Grant listened to the arguments and looked over the petition presented. Then he turned to his head and remarked:

"I don't think an old fellow out there of the name of Long, who used to be a judge of the county court, would be a very good collector. Nobody in the delegation could recall Long, but Grant told them to go back and find out. Some time later he was told that Judge Long was still living in the county, but was not conspicuous.

"Get up a petition for him," advised the president, "and I will appoint him internal revenue collector."

"The friends of Long lost no time in presenting the requested petition, and the old judge was appointed."

"Grant had never forgotten the favor done him when he was less propenous."—Washington Post.
